Candidates who are attending courses at certain institutions should ascertain if a centre has been arranged at that institution for its own students. Such students should indicate that they are either full-time or part-time and write down the name of the institution in the space provided on the entry form. Whether a centre will be arranged at a particular place will depend on the number of candidates at the various sections of the examination.

A centre which has very few candidates may be closed for a particular sitting and candidates transferred to another centre. Similarly, in a centre where many candidates have chosen to sit for the examinations, some candidates may be transferred to another centre. Kasneb reserves the right to reject any entry or to transfer a candidate from one centre to another.
